It was rumored to-day that the county officials are taking steps to have the foreign book at the track closed.

Contracts were signed to-day for the new track at Barksdale, which is to open when the thirty-day limit has expired here. It is about three miles from the town, and can be reached from Baltimore and Philadelphia by the Baltimore & Ohio Raliroad.

It is understood that another track of the circuit is to be built at a place cailed Nigger House Curve, which is about two miles north of the town.

Wah Jim was voted a certainty for the opening event. In the early betting even money was freely offered against him, but there were plenty of takers, and 7 to 10 was soon the best obtainable, with Forest next in demand at 7 to 2. At the end of three furiongs the favorite was second to Forest. As he was running the stronger of the two it looked as if he would win, but Dangler tried to take him through on the rail, and he was shut out. This cost him the race, for Forest went on, and under strong riding won by two lenghts. Artillery was third. Time, 1:06.

The second race furnished some lively speculation. Mattle Chun, the favorite, falled to show prominently, Jersey, who was first away, holding his position throughout and winning eased up by two lenghts. Chelsea, half-brother to Hastings, Terrier and Handsome, is a nich brown, with a biaze face, and is in type and general conformation a Longfellow. He, however, differs from most Longfellows in that he looks as if he will come early to hand and race as a two-year-old. He has beautiful action, with a long reach, travelling close to the ground.

Matt Allen's St. Agnes, Supelo and Haywood and the two-year-olds Tropical, Recollection, Tea Caddy and Trayline trotted and cantered. Tropical, who is by Mastim, out of Nodaway, is a compact, close-coupled, whole-colored bay, with black legs, after mover and very fast. LEGAL PREY.

Though the legal season for trout opened on Long Island on March 28, relatively few anglers availed themselves of the privilege, for it is an abiding sentiment among all true Waltonians that the beauty and pleasure of this historic pastime can only be found when Nature has donned her follage of green, and the baim of the Spring or early Summer days is over the earth and waiers.

But the atmospheric conditions prevalling the last few days are all that the most earnest and eager troutist could wish, and to-day all over the State of New York every brook and stream containing trout will be threshed with artificial files, or their pool and channel ways explored by the garden hackle, familiarly known as the earthworm.

The anglers of no large city in the world have so great facilities as those of New York. All around us the tidal waters, bays and estuaries of the sait water yield abundant sport to the rod, for more than adozen fishes of gameness and edibility, and the fresh water fisherman, particularly the trout angler, can get, within an hour to four hours' ride, excellent sport among the black bass and the trout.
